Bachelors' Outing

The Bachelors of Hartford once more succumbed to feminine charms and escorted damsels of the area to their annual picnic, Saturday, June 23, which was held this year at Avon Old Farms School.

It was a successful day and evening for the group, who impressed their guests with culinary talents in flipping hamburgers, and roasting corn right to the taste. True to form, the gentlemen gallantly batted "lefty" in the game which followed the picnic, still managing to give the ladies a "run for their money."

Bob Halprin supplied the music for dancing under lights on the green (All Courant Photos by Arman Hatsian).

Bob Varsell of West Hartford and Peggy Beane of Cheshire, literally bury themselves in corn-on-the-cob, without which, they agree, no picnic is complete.

Too comfortable to move, and enjoying their view of post-picnic antics are David Leinbach of West Hartford and Mary Beth McGurk of Hartford.

Enjoying the evening's activities, which ended with dancing to Bob Halprin's orchestra, are Clay Parsons Jr. and Muriel Moylan, both of West Hartford.

Another miss! The efforts of Lynn Hollister of West Hartford to out-hit the bachelors are futile, as she woefully watches the ball go sailing by her.
